Prominent Lawyer Killed.

ST LOUIS October 21.—Frank J Bowman, the well known lawyer who has figured in so many matrimonial troubles here and in Chicago, was shot and killed this afternoon at Ferguson, Mo by D M Chambers The killing grew out of trouble over the Times newspaper. Chambers was a large stockholder and the principal owner of the paper up to the time of its demise Bowman was also financially interested in it and has been litigation with Chambers.

This afternoon, in company with Deputy Sheriff Garrett of St Louis county, Bowman called at Chambers' home in Ferguson. He met Chambers in the yard and told him he had come to levy on the property. Chambers entered his house, but came out almost immediately with a shot gun. He ordered the deputy sheriff out of his yard and Garrett went. "Now, Bowman, I'll give you three minutes to get out of these premises" said Chambers. Bowman did not move, and an instant later Chambers raised his gun and fired a load into Bowman's bowels. Bowman fell dead and Chambers walked into the house, and at 4.30 p. m. was still there awaiting arrest, while Bowman's body lay in a pool of blood in the yard, nobody venturing to touch it as the coroner had not yet arrived.

Bowman was one of the best known men in St. Louis His match suit with his wife and other women are familiar to the readers of the papers during the past year. Chambers was at one time prominent in this city. He was president of the Butchers and Drovers' bank which failed a dozen years ago After this he bought out the Times and stayed with it until it failed.

At 5 o'clock the sheriff arrested Chambers' son, and placed the murderer under arrest. He was jailed at Clayton and refuses to talk.

Posts at His Desk.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—General Green B Raum this morning sat in the chair lately occupied by Corporal Tanner at the pension office. He received a number of friends who called to pay their respects and made a tour of the different divisions to see the methods of procedure in each. Secretary Noble says that he is not worried by the publication of ex-Commissioner Tanner's last letter. He will make no reply to it. "I have ... with Tanner," said Noble "He is a back number with me and all that he has published I have seen, and I think it does not need any reply. If he wants to make me a target he can do so. Let him fire away all he wants to."

Wm. L. James, son of a prominent British-American, lawyer, said to day in an interview that the suspect Kunze was one of the men who occupied the flat on Clark street, where the furniture found in the Carlson cottage is supposed to have been first taken Young James says at the time of Cronin's disappearance his father had an flat on the street from the flat, and it was from there that he saw Kunze.

Lawyer Foster, according to a local paper to day, outlined the defense which will be set up by the counsel. Beggs was the senior guardian of Camp 20 Clan na Gael and, it is alleged, he appointed the committee which tried Cronin and ordered his death. Foster is quoted as saying there was a committee appointed by Beggs to try Cronin, and that other committees were appointed but not for that purpose. The evidence will show that after the resolution was passed it was decided to refer the matter for final settlement to the district officer, Edward Spellman, of Peoria This, Foster says, was the occasion of all the correspondence between Spellman and Beggs, which will appear in the trial If this correspondence contains the name of Cronin, Foster says he is very much misinformed.

The First Nat'l Bank Asks Judg ...

DENVER October 21 —The First National bank has filed a complaint in the district court asking judgment against the Southern Colorado Coal company for $25,000. The ...

The plaintiff alleges as the first cause of action that the defendant has been and is now a corporation organized and incorporated under the acts of the national congress and doing business under the laws of the state of Colorado, that on July 24, 1889, defendant executed a promissory note payable to the bank and signed by J K R Linson, vice president and manager, for the sum of $15,000; that defendant according to reliable information, is about to fraudulently convey and assign its property and effects so as to hinder and delay the creditors and plaintiff in collection of the note, that by reason of these facts the note has become due and payable For a second cause of action it is alleged that on August 28 1889 defendant made another promissory note for $10,000 payable to the order of the First National bank and that for reasons already stated plaintiff asks judgment for the aggregate sum of $25,000.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The Council Takes Some Action in the Dust Matter

Details Into Its Water Bonds to the Sum of $30,000.

The Charges Against Policeman Hunter Not Sustained.

Charges Preferred Against City Marshal Summons.

There was present at the city council meeting last night Mayor Stubbs and all members and officers but Alderman Lawton who is still in the east

The following communications and petitions remonstrances, etc were read

A petition signed by A J Truex and others, remonstrating against permitting the Electric light company from running a sewer line into the Monument creek, was first read Referred to the ... committee

A communication from Chief Ferrin, of the fire department, recommending the purchasing of new ladders three fire alarm boxes and a distributing nozzle for the fire department. Referred to the fire committee.

Alderman Stubbs reported that the work on the sewer outlet was nearly completed.

Alderman Bartlett reported that the Kiowa street bridge was all completed but painting the approaches He also reported in favor of accepting the plat of Reid's addition when the city attorney accepts the abstract The report was accepted

The committee to report upon an electric light at the under crossing of the Santa Fe, reported unfavorably The report was adopted.

The committee to whom the matter of sprinkling the city was referred, reported as follows:

COLORADO SPRINGS, October 21, 1889.

The undersigned, to whom was referred the petition on sprinkling, would recommend:

1st That Cache avenue, Tejon street, Nevada avenue and Weber street The sprinkled twice every week day when necessary, the city requires between Moreno avenue and Cache la Poudre street, and that when any part of the said sprinkling must be omitted, that part be left out which will suffer least from the dust grievance.

2d That additional sprinklers be secured for this purpose.

3d Said sprinkling to commence as soon as individual citizens will, in hope of being reimbursed by the city, advance the amount required to cover expense of running said sprinklers, until the next municipal appropriation is made.

4th. That such sprinkling be done by contract, either by the month, day, or mile, the contractor to furnish teams and men.

E. C. BARTLETT,
IRA G. STUBBS,
Committee.

There was a great deal of discussion regarding the matter. Alderman Bartlett, of the committee, being called upon to state what the expense and what preparations in the way of carts, etc., ... Mr. Sprague thought there should be something more definite regarding the sprinkling of cross streets, and submitted an amendment to that effect, which was accepted. Mr J. P. Barnes wanted to know if accepting the report bound the council to provide the work whether the money was forthcoming or not. He was assured that it did not Mr. Bartlett thought the cost of sprinkling from now until next April would be about $3000 Dr. S E Solly, of the board of trade committee having the matter in charge, was present and was questioned by the mayor as to the probability of the citizens raising the money Dr. Solly said that he could not speak authoritatively, but he knew of one gentleman who offered to be one of ten to loan the city $1000 each, and he apprehended little trouble in raising the money. He presented an additional list of names of citizens who petitioned the council to take some action in the dust matter The list was increased to 731 names, 657 of which were tax payers. Only three persons had refused to sign the petition outside of the council, who of course, could not sign it properly

Alderman Stubbs presented an amendment instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids for sprinkling the streets, the bidders to take the risk of getting an appropriation to pay for it next spring. After a great deal of argument the amendment was killed. The report of the committee was then adopted unanimously.

Mr. G. W. Karrick presented a petition to be allowed to build a road through certain city property, giving an outlet to land in which he is interested Referred to the committee on public grounds

Aldeman Bartlett urged the matter of a fire hook for the west side

The mayor and police committee reported that the charges against Policeman Hunter were not sustained It was also reported in favor of declaring the place of Policeman Woods, serving ten months, vacant, thereby reducing the force to six men. Alderman Gillingham objected strongly to this as he considered the force hardly sufficient at present The report was adopted

The council took a recess of ten minutes, after which Alderman Stubbs presented an ordinance for the issue of $30,000 in bonds for use in extending the city's water works system. The issue is made necessary by the work being done in the mountains, including the Bear creek line of pipe The bonds are to bear interest at 6 per cent, payable semi annually, payable in gold and are to run for fifteen years After the year 1899 a tax is to be levied collecting annually $10,000 to pay the bonds

Alderman Sprague moved to suspend the rules The motion prevailed Upon ...

It seems that on account of the smallness of the contingent fund that the governor is having some difficulty in arranging for special counsel to prosecute the civil suits for the recovery of money taken improperly from the state treasury. It is rather a misfortune that the appropriation was large enough to pay all the extravagant bills of the state contractors, but too small to secure their punishment. It is to be hoped that the governor will find some way of getting around this. The people of this state are interested in the prosecution of these suits. If they are prosecuted and are successful they will save many dollars from the treasury for a decade at least. This state can afford to spend fifty thousand dollars rather than not have the cases tried. Under the circumstances any reasonable stretch of executive power and discretion will be approved of by the whole state. It is said that the auditor has hesitated to issue warrants for the payment of special counsel on the advice of the attorney general. We do not make this charge because we do not know that it is true. But if it is true, it is a great mistake for Auditor Schwanbeck. If he made a mistake in not examining carefully contracts and bills for which he issued warrants for various state supplies which cost the state a good many thousand dollars more than was necessary he ought not to hesitate to issue warrants to have this refunded.

J. Madison Cutts, brother in law of Stephen A. Douglas, has published a pamphlet entitled "An American Continental and Commercial Union," written by the great Illinois senator. It looks as though this were done to take away some of the glory from Mr. Blaine. The plan suggested is not as comprehensive as Mr. Blaine's, because it does not include any of the South American states. But it was more statesmanlike for the reason that it suggested some basis for the commercial union, which Mr. Blaine has omitted to consider with any definiteness. We all acknowledge the need of this union and the mutual benefit it may be. The question is, how is this to be entered into when our manufactured goods made by the free and well paid labor of this country is to compete in the markets of Rio Janeiro with the manufactures made by the pauper labor of Europe. If we can compete, then our labor does not need any protection against the pauper labor of Europe. If it does need this protection, then we cannot compete. Senator Douglas solved in part the difficulty by suggesting that all barriers of trade be removed as between the United States, Mexico, Central America and Canada; that the trading between Mexico and the United States should be as free as between Texas and Louisiana. This suggestion is a proper basis for a commercial union. If we are not ready for that basis, we had much better give up the idea of having any commercial union. We must not expect that the South American countries and Mexico would be willing to pay a duty on all the articles they send to this country and then pay from ten to twenty five per cent more for what we sell them than they can buy the same goods in Liverpool.

THE HOME ASSURED

According to the laws governing the members of the Typographical Union it is necessary that all laws passed at any session of the International body shall be ratified subsequently by a popular vote of the members. Therefore last June when the International met in Denver and adopted the proposition of public spirited gentlemen in the city of a tract of land [illegible] to locate a home for sick and aged printers the matter was not definitely settled until voted on by the members throughout the country. The first set for ratifying the acts of the Denver session of the I. T. U. was during the meetings of various unions in August. There were thirteen propositions to vote upon, and President Plank, Secretary McCleery and First Vice President Hall were appointed the canvassing board. The Typographical Journal for October has been received, giving the vote cast for the various propositions. It was voted to accept the home proposition by a large majority. The vote stood: To accept, 4828, against, 1532, a majority of 3296. Only three other propositions received larger votes. The Journal in commenting upon the vote editorially says:

Report on the Mormons.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—Lewis Wolfley, governor of Arizona, to day submitted his annual report to the secretary of the interior. Concerning the Mormons the governor says:

Arizona had a law disenfranchising all who practiced, taught or encouraged polygamy. The first legislative act signed by my late predecessor was the repeal of that act. I request and urge congress to repeal the repealing act and re establish it above the territorial law. Politically, the Mormons seem to have adopted the plan of sending colonies or "stakes" to the surrounding territories in sufficient numbers to form the balance of power between the two political parties. They are willing to trade with either, but remain true only so long as the interests of the church are best served. The church is their law, and all other law is subservient to the orders of the church.

The Mormons in the territory number about 8000. The total taxable property of the territory is $26,575,692. The total territorial indebtedness is $752,000 and the total territorial county and city indebtedness about $2,002,001. The governor respectfully requests that congress be asked to pass the necessary act allowing the territory to issue long time bonds, say fifty year bonds. He says he is assured that these could be negotiated at probably 4 per cent, certainly not to exceed 5 per cent. The acreage of the land entries for the year aggregate 500,798 acres valued at $[illegible]. The governor urges that the Atlantic and Pacific railroad lands be surveyed, as a failure so to do virtually withdraws from settlement one-half of the entire belt of land one hundred miles wide by the full width of the territory, except a small portion now surveyed.

The governor says that except the shipment of ore, Arizona cannot be said to have any export commerce, not that she is without articles to export, but for the reason that the railroad transportation rates are too high to permit it. "We need," he adds, "two lines of north and south railroads to connect with the two east and west trans continental railroads and these two north and south roads must be restricted to moderate rates." Agriculture is in a fairly prosperous condition. Stock raising is one of the leading industries and while the price of beef steadily declines the increase in numbers has been so great that the aggregate value of the aggregate herd is well sustained. Mining has had a healthy growth during the last year.

The mineral products for the year 1888 are given as follows: Copper, 31,797,000 pounds, gold, $850,000, silver, $4,260,000. With better railroad facilities the governor thinks that the mineral output would be greatly increased. The school system in Arizona, the governor says, is an excellent one and is being liberally and fairly carried out.

EASTON, Pa., October 21.—The trial of William H. Barth on a charge for the murder of Washington Dillard was stopped suddenly today by a sensational confession. The widow of the murdered man came into court determined to go on the stand and tell all she knew about the murder of her husband and plead guilty to murder in the second degree. This was a great surprise to the lawyers and adjournment was taken until afternoon.

Mrs. D. Baird was then placed on the stand and testified that she had sustained improper relations with Bartholomew two years before the death of her husband. It was finally determined to murder Dillard and a foolish plot was concocted. Barth knew that Dillard's gun so it would be useless and then said he would come to the house next night, would make a disturbance in the chicken roost and Mrs. Dillard should bring her husband down with his gun and Barth would kill him. The programme was carried out. Dillard went out with the gun and was killed by Barth. The gun broke [illegible] Mrs. Dillard wanted [illegible] Barth to go west with them. Barth refused to do this [illegible] Mrs. Dillard went [illegible] Barth down to Philadelphia, New Orleans and San Francisco and to have what slight duties they would be called upon to do performed by the local inspectors. The salary of the inspectors which have been dropped is two thousand a year each.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

THE SUCCESSFUL FEMALE JOURNALISTS OF THE METROPOLIS

How Rapidly Women Have Come to the Front in New York Journalism. Their Work on Magazines and Other Leading Dailies

[illegible]

Perhaps the best known writer on the daily press of New York [illegible] is Miss Molly Morgan, the health editor of The New York Herald. What she does not know about health questions is not probably known to any one. She is a tall, gaunt form, and is inclined to dress mannishly, as the cowhide boots, which she wears at times, would indicate. She is about 40 years of age, has a rich Irish brogue, and one of the most kindly and benevolent faces, in which are set a pair of blue eyes that only the Emerald Isle could produce.

She is a most zealous worker, and in addition to her newspaper work occupies a salaried position with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Her living apartment is immediately over the ground floor, where she has an office, and the only way of reaching it is by a ladder. To this a strong rope is attached, and when she is safely landed aloft she pulls the ladder up and stows it under her bed until she wishes to alight. It annoys her to see her first name spelled with two d's, as she says "it is the Irish for Mary, and two r's in Mary would make it marry, a thing I love you, I would never do."

"Bob," who is known to her [illegible] by another name with the prefix of Mrs., has frequently been called "a slave of the pen," but never was the term more [illegible]. Her words roll out as easily at the end of the great quill pen she uses as they do when she [illegible] and she is perfectly well at her journalistic pursuits. When she has a quantity of matter to get out [illegible] she usually dictates it to a stenographer, as she says she can picture the poetical capers which [illegible] sometimes turns to one of [illegible] when the type setter tackles her copy. She does not pride herself on her style of chirography.

She is one of the few women who live entirely by the use of her pen, and her [illegible] is due to her [illegible] will. About nine years ago she applied to Mr. [illegible] Brun for something to do, and volunteered the statement that she was not prejudiced in the use of a broom, but was willing to sweep their office if they would give her employment. She was "[illegible]," but not to [illegible] she showed a talent for writing, and they found a place for all the [illegible] of her pen. She writes with a bold dash that is [illegible] and today draws a large salary from the firm of E. Butterick & Co. for editorial work in the publishing department. [illegible] the many popular letters she [illegible] signed with her [illegible] is of medium height, with hair of the color that is [illegible] with white bodies. She has a [illegible] eyes, and a nose, and [illegible] fully and is a clear [illegible].

Julia Hayes Percy, of The World, [illegible] has a [illegible] that not [illegible] her [illegible] does [illegible] "They really can't keep still." She is a tall, [illegible] woman, with a willowy figure. Her face is black hair is [illegible] and she has eyes like a [illegible]. She her connection with The World [illegible] is entirely any [illegible] of [illegible] work which she has not had a hand in. She is an enthusiastic worker [illegible] of the sort that will die in the harness. She has not the bodily strength to carry out her [illegible] and [illegible] of her sisters would do well to follow, in the forbearance to utter a [illegible] word of one of her own sex.

It was she who first [illegible] the [illegible] of the case of Cullen, who [illegible] and in which the government of the state and the [illegible] took part later. She has a very [illegible] apartment, filled with rare antiquities, whose her intimate friends say, she [illegible] the [illegible] of delicate and tempting dishes.

A word [illegible] be said in favor of "Nell Nelson," who is also of The New York World, and [illegible] ever [illegible] of her [illegible] desire to [illegible] Brooklyn women in this city has [illegible] to prove the condition of the working [illegible] than she. Always patient, loving and tender, she goes about in her [illegible] way, [illegible] ing to the wants of the sick and giving [illegible] to the healthy. The [illegible] and [illegible] she has [illegible] in [illegible] out [illegible] acts of charity would not be [illegible] by many if [illegible], yet [illegible] she, in a single instance, hesitated to [illegible] a threadbare [illegible] she [illegible] darked in [illegible] and disease, if she believed she could [illegible] or even for a suffering creature.

Miss Nellie E. Hutchinson is a [illegible] little woman, who [illegible] rests long enough to catch any [illegible]. She is delicate in [illegible] ance, with an [illegible] pretty face, and has watchful, restless dark eyes, which seem to take in everything at a glance. Miss Hutchinson is an [illegible] acquaintance to The New York Tribune, and edits its weekly edition, for which she is [illegible] paid. She writes on [illegible] subjects and handles them with [illegible]. She is as [illegible] as the [illegible] and is inclined to [illegible] into [illegible]. If, but, like the tiny flower, is much [illegible] and carried into the high places.

Little Mattie Shepherd, who is known as "Madame Spider," has charge [illegible] young writer who [illegible] long enough to get of, and who [illegible] one with whom she comes in contact. She [illegible] thinks she writes like other people, but has a style peculiar to herself, the humorous always [illegible]. Not long since she wrote an article on "Patent Medicine," which, when published by a Boston M. D., brought her $300. She [illegible] a handsome sum yearly, and has a host of friends who find their way often to her jolly and [illegible] apartments, just off Fifth avenue, in one of the uptown streets.

Mrs. C. G. [illegible] of The New York Tribune, has charge of the fashions, and tells the world what to wear and how to wear it. She has great executive ability, and looks after most of the [illegible] notices that appear in the sheet she represents.

"Molly Rawn" (Miss Viola Rosboro) should be named [illegible] among the talented and fortunate [illegible] of the pen. She is a wideawake woman with a faculty of [illegible] "there." She has [illegible] good [illegible] both for The Cincinnati and The Graphic. She and [illegible] have been jealous of her [illegible] as a writer and men of the large salary it is said she draws per [illegible], which, if correctly [illegible], exceeds that paid to the average man [illegible]. She [illegible] a high advocate of "dress reform," and dons [illegible].

Celia Logan is no doubt, financially, the [illegible] author in this city. She has been [illegible] to coin [illegible] at the rate of from ten to twelve thousand dollars a year. Her [illegible] as a writer is not only [illegible] of an ordinary, but an extraordinary, woman. She has written plays, stories and sketches without number, covering all and every clime. In the [illegible] of this remarkable woman she is content to be [illegible] and listen, as she glides from one subject to another, and handles each in the [illegible] way that suggests no improvement to the hearer's mind.

Mrs. C. Leslie Garrison is regularly employed by one of the leading journals of New York, and [illegible] from this she contributes to magazines and a number of the weeklies as well as [illegible] various syndicates with letters.

Miss Virginia Tarbell, [illegible] not come [illegible] the level of [illegible] late, but her contributions in the way of [illegible] which have [illegible] Day Graphic, have [illegible] far [illegible]

She is a woman [illegible] has taken pleasure in [illegible] own sweet will [illegible] Mrs. P. C. B. [illegible]

[illegible]

Mrs. Frances Fitzgerald Albertson has been [illegible] and being a most [illegible] woman, admits that [illegible] by the press lodge [illegible] but [illegible] with true feeling "How it hurts [illegible]." Mrs. Albertson is [illegible] of [illegible] with dark, expressive eyes and [illegible] eyebrows and lashes, which [illegible] a striking contrast to her colorless face. Her head is small but shapely, and [illegible] covered with black hair, [illegible] on the golden tresses of [illegible] perfect sight and, and [illegible] of her writing while burning the midnight oil. She sleeps late, takes little outdoor exercise, and is "not to me" in the direction there for friends flock to feast up her wit and pleasantries.

Every one is interested and curious about "Nellie Bly" (Miss Cochrane), the fearless little woman who dared probe the festers of New York city institutions, and reveal what she found there, who dared to presume a member of the legislature could be bought, and prove by offering a price that he was salable. She is the best person a sound observer would tax with concocting schemes to upset the fa[illegible] of men, disturb the city house keeping and puzzle the medical faculty of New York—yet all this she has done.

Miss Bly is below the medium height, with a [illegible] girlish figure; she has light brown hair, colorless skin, inclined to be sallow; large, expressive gray eyes and a mouth denoting great determination. She has a nest flat in the upper part of the city, which her family share with her. The softest spot in this [illegible] woman's heart is for her 5-year old niece, a fairy like little thing.

The New York World, of which Miss Bly is a staff member, has really been a veritable pole to her, and no doubt, with her faculty of making the most of her advantages, she will ride to fame upon a vehicle of such vast [illegible]. The pains [illegible] her with sickness, leaving her quick brain to [illegible] how they are to be [illegible], and good advice and the careful study of her articles does the rest. Her [illegible] of how to [illegible] situations is [illegible].

Mrs. Fanny B. Merrill is also a staff writer of The New York World, and for some time had charge of and still [illegible] the child's page of that [illegible]. She [illegible] to be especially [illegible] for this class of work.

PARIS, Oct. 3. One would naturally suppose that [illegible] Victoria would like the traditional "roast beef of old England" better than anything but she prefers [illegible], and every dishing takes her [illegible] porridge, and fr[illegible] only has a soup [illegible] served with her [illegible]. Her favorite [illegible] of hot but [illegible] half an [illegible] and half [illegible], [illegible] quite hard, are served with every [illegible]. She is very fond of raw ham [illegible] quite thin and [illegible] with pickles [illegible] for luncheon. This particular kind of ham is brought from Gre[illegible] or Tr[illegible]. She drinks less with her lunch and [illegible] nothing else with her [illegible] every night and [illegible] of hot Scotch [illegible].

The [illegible] of Sc[illegible] this order and eats [illegible] bread and very rare with every meal, no [illegible] else in there. She also is fond of raw [illegible] and pe[illegible] after the [illegible] of her [illegible], and also a sort of fritters made of [illegible] boiled to a pulp and [illegible] fried in oil.

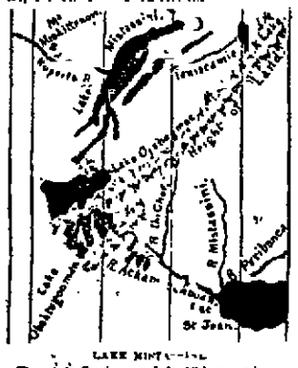
Greenback Nominations.

NEW YORK [illegible] Greenback convention in Brooklyn yesterday nominated Alfred C. Chapin for Governor.

LAKE MISTASSINI.

A Hitherto Unknown Body of Water Thoroughly Explored.

For many years it has been supposed that a great inland sea called Lake Mistassini existed far up north of the 50th parallel of latitude in Canada. Its a gloomy, sterile region, and the Indian hunters and trappers who went there often reported stories of fearful storms on those lonely lakes. During the past summer Professor W J Loudon, of the University of Toronto, and Mr George Sc[illegible] Moffat had undertook the exploration of the lake, and have returned and written an account of their trip for The New York Herald.



LAKE MISTASSINI.

They left Quebec on July 18 last, and went to Montreal. Thence, after obtaining an addition to their outfit and a guide and three men, the party worked their way up the Ashuapmushuan river, with its rapids and portages, having plenty of fish, on which diet they principally subsisted. On July 30 they [illegible] Lake Achinoskumsum. Along the route they met Indians whose traditions confirmed the stories that had been told of the [illegible] found existing by the intelligence of this city region.

On Aug. 9 they reached the Hudson's Bay company's post on the lower end of the lake, and the next day set out to explore the body of [illegible] which had so long been a mystery. They located [illegible] position from the Pole star at [illegible] and took the temperature of the water, which they found to be 50.5 degrees Fahrenheit. After traversing the lake from its northern to its south [illegible] they [illegible] the mouth of Tagobee river. Here they stayed [illegible] and [illegible] each other. They had [illegible] the limit of their [illegible] ration.

The next [illegible] after [illegible] up the river for two hours, they came in sight of [illegible] almost five [illegible] long. Leaving the canoe they tramped [illegible] expanse of [illegible] the [illegible] of these hills. The [illegible] from a height of 2,000 feet the whole region to the north of the lake was [illegible]. Below, on a broad plateau, the country could be seen for a distance of thirty-five miles and they were [illegible] to make some [illegible] drawings. After gathering all the information required to [illegible] the party set to work on their journey out of the wilderness.

[illegible] of the temperature which they encountered indicate that the winters are [illegible] cold and [illegible] are very short. There is an abundance of fish, but about the only [illegible] to be obtained is bear. Furs are plenty, and [illegible] the skins of animals with which to keep the ladies of more southern climes warm in winter is about all any one finds to do. The [illegible] of brass coins gilded over, bearing the [illegible] Hudson Bay company. They are known as "beavers." There are also "half beavers" and "quarter beavers." They [illegible] originally took [illegible] from the value of a beaver's skin.

The C[illegible] Tunnel.

Americans have heard that it was in contemplation here to construct a [illegible] under the English channel [illegible] that short [illegible] between England and France. To perform such work a company, with Sir Edward [illegible] at its head, was formed, but time and [illegible] efforts were devoted. It may be imagined that the company is defunct. It is alive and has no thought of dying. It is a difficult thing to tire an English [illegible] when he is confident he has a good thing. The channel company is quietly working to gain its end. It had a bill in parliament this [illegible] but it was not pushed to debate, because there was not sufficient time to do it justice.

The company is apparently in no hurry. It [illegible] its time, but meanwhile it is gaining friends, and where it will do the most good. The solicitor of the company told a Herald reporter that the company felt certain of gaining its end in a few years, and showed how it was gaining a friend here and there. Its [illegible] money has been the board of trade, which is a government department, but even that body is proposing to bring around in time. The solicitor told a story of the Duke of Wellington's opposition to the construction of railroad between Portsmouth and [illegible]. His objection was that in case of invasion the movements of the invaders would be [illegible] facilitated by the road.—London Cor. Tacoma News.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22 1889

DAILY WEATHER REPORT

Mr. James Conroy of Denver was shaking hands with friends in the city today.

The regular meeting of El Paso Union No 300 K. A. U. will be held this evening at Knights of Honor hall.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Edward Nicholson and Miss Fannie J. Douglass both of this city.

Attention is called to the advertisement for some lost horses, inserted in another column of this paper by James Cassday.

Mr. F. B. Campbell who arrived in the city several days ago left last night for El Paso Texas, where he will spend the winter.

The protracted meeting at the Christian church will continue through the week. The interest is increasing. Baptism will be administered Wednesday evening after services.

Announcement of the dissolution of the boot and shoe firm of Bacon & Griswold is made in another column. Mr. Will Bacon will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Griswold retires.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Christian Church have arranged for a musical and literary entertainment to be given at Weber hall on Tuesday evening, October 22, 1889. Further announcement will be made.

Mr. David Crolson, a whilom Colorado Springs boy, but lately of Toronto, Canada, returned to the city on Sunday and will probably remain permanently. He is the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. V. Mulholland.

Mr. James May, the popular caterer, his been engaged to superintend the roasting of the ox and the potatoes at the Monument picnic to-morrow. November 1st. Window hangers were put out yesterday advertising the big day.

The work of renewing the stone columns of the block block was begun yesterday, by Mr. Sheets, an expert engineer, of Chicago. The number of columns it will be necessary to remove cannot be decided upon as yet.

An entertainment will be given at the Baptist church, Thursday evening, Oct. 24th. The program consists of vocal and instrumental music and readings by Miss Hext, the elocutionist. Proceeds to be applied to the building fund.

Rumors that Mr. J. W. Stillman will allow the nomination for county commissioner, tendered by the people's convention on Saturday, are denied by his friends. It is generally understood on the streets that Mr. Stillman will accept.

John A. Sprague, in charge of the Gazette job printing room, got down to the office yesterday morning with his arms full of cigars and a broad smile wreathing his countenance. It was all on account of a daughter, which arrived at his house Saturday evening.

Dr. S. T. Busey has arrived at home from the east bringing a pair of Shetland ponies. He will be followed by a car of these ponies shortly which have been purchased in the Shetland Island and West Indies. Dr. Busey proposes to venture extensively into the raising and sale of these animals.

Invitations were received in the city last night for the wedding of Rev. Geo. C. Woodruff, of this city, and Miss Lucy Este Crawford, which will occur Tuesday evening, November 5th, 1889, at the residence of Mrs. Marshall E. Smith, aunt of the bride, 1518 Park avenue, Baltimore.

Dr. Wm. Fowler has the handsome prize banner on exhibition in his office that was won by Pike's Peak lodge I. O. O. F. for exemplification of the degree work. The banner is of silk with gilt fringe. One side is solid red with the following inscription upon it. "Prize Banner, awarded by J. M. Norman, grand secretary, for best exemplification of initiatory degree." The other is of white and blue, with the lodge name and number upon it. The banner is one of the most beautiful in the city.

A Card of Thanks.

The per cent. on Saturday's sales donated to the building fund of the Christian Church by Messrs. Stark & Titus amounted to $50. We are exceedingly grateful to the press, the people and the partners for their assistance. "Go thou and do likewise."

WANT FOR AUSTIN BLUFF LOTS. The finest suburban residence location—combining view of mountain and plain—in the state. [illegible] parks, overgrown with large pine trees, unequalled as a health location; pure air, pure water, no smoke, no dust, plenty of [illegible]. Lots in this beautiful suburb are large size, from one to four acres, being thus well adapted for fine residences. Only [illegible] minutes drive from center of our city. A motor line is already projected and will no doubt be built this coming season. Do not fail to examine this locality before purchasing. Carriage always in attendance to show property.

WANT for the most desirable lots in Boulder Heights Addition. We handle only first class properties, and can guarantee satisfaction in every case. Buy only the best. If it does not pay you to invest in a desirable locality it certainly will not pay you to invest at all. Choice properties, improved and unimproved, in all parts of the city.

THE STREET CAR LINE is now being extended up to the Boston Land Co tract, so that parties wishing low priced properties in a very desirable locality cannot do better than to examine these. Lots on Cascade avenue only $250.

THE NORTH END ADDITION!

CENTRAL OFFICE: 106 PIKE'S PEAK AVE.

This city is going NORTHWARD. Careful investors see this and are buying in the NORTH END ADDITION. Lots on Cascade Avenue, Tejon Street and Nevada Avenue, at present prices, are sure to make money. Costly buildings already erecting show the character of the addition as a site for homes. Prices on Cascade Avenue have already been advanced, though the addition has been on the market but a short time. The Street Railway extends through the addition and every lot has City Water. Those who wish safe investments, or homes in the best section, should secure lots NOW before prices are further advanced.

We have also a list of miscellaneous properties comprising the best offered for sale in the city and its environs.
